Chairman Bell and Secretary Brackett went to the pension office this morning, where they met Gen. Miles, chairman of the reception committee, and Mr. Edward McCauley, chairman of the floor and promenade committee, and had a conference over the arrangements of the inaugural Pennsylvania Troops May Yet Come The recent announcement that none of the troops composing the Pennsylvania National Guard would participate in the inaugural parade may eventually prove to be in progress among the friends of the organization to secure its substantial reprecentation here on March 4. It is confi-dently believed in quarters usually well informed that at least two regiments of the keystone state militia will be found in line when President McKinley reviews the proression, and there are believed to be strong probabilities that this number may be in-creased by one or two other commands.

Vice President Hobart's Party.

Vice President-elect Hobart will reach Washington March 2, at 4 p.m., accompanied by a party of twenty-five persons including Gov. Griggs and his staff, and the wives of several of the members of the latter. The visitors will come by the Baltimore and Ohio road, and will be met at the depot by a committee composed of members of the inaugural committee to be selected by Chairman Bell and escorted to the Ariington Hotel.

the Ariington Hotel.

The James L. Goodall Republican Club of Philadelphia will have in the inaugural parade sixty men, dressed in black cheviot overcoats, high hats and carrying canes. They will be under command of Frank R. Burton, assisted by Samuel Johnson, and will secure a band in this city. The men will be quartered at 1519 M street and 1013 18th street northwest. 18th street northvest.

Carlisle Students Coming.

The very gratifying announcement of the coming of the Indian students from the Carlisle School was received by Civic Chairman Warner this morning from Capt. R. H. Pratt of the 10th Cavalry, superintendent of the school. Capt. Pratt states that the battalion will leave Carlisle at 3 a.m. March 4, reaching here at 7 a.m. The boys will leave at 7 in the evening of inaugura-

Public Comfort Arrangements.

Chairman Wright of the public comfort committee reports an increased inquiry for accommodations from prospective visitors to the inauguration. He has inspected and registered accommodations for 37,150 perors; places where 21,083 can obtain meals aione, and 479 windows and a number of balconies which can be rented by those who wish to view the parade. Agent Mahoney has registered 1,307 horses for parade purposes and supplied inquirers for mounts with 165.

LANGDON.

A reception was given Thursday evening by Mr Klopbel and family at their home on Avalon Heights. These present were the Misses Edith Heights. There present were the Misses Edith McIntosh, Therela McIntosh, Annie Jones, Marte Snyder, Julia Sweeney, Mattle Sweeney, Estella Clarke, Agnes West, Edna Hazelton, Messrs, Frank Bror, Sam Marks, Henry Birckett, Christy West, Francis Grebel, George Clarke, George Door, How-ard Savder, Larry Jones, Harry Clarke, Archie Gray, Hiarry Beddell, Will White, Charles Mc-Intosh, Will McIntosh and John Low.

Officers of the Next House.

The employes in the House end of the Capitol are beginning to gossip a great deal that the present officers will be re-elected. They are Clerk McDowell, Doorkeeper Glenn and Sergeant-at-arms Russell. Should the present officers be re-elected, as is the opinion now, there will, it is said, be lew changes on the pay rolls of the next

The Texas at Galveston.

The much maligned battle ship Texas has arrived at Galveston, Texas, where she was recently ordered by the Navy Departdonated to the ship by the citizens of the lone star state. She made the trip from New York without stop or untoward inci-dent of any kind. The cruise was entirely successful in every respect and utterly dis-proves the sensational reports current some weeks ago that the Texas was a marine failure.

Trial.

Evidence as to Mrs. Van Riswick's

The introduction of testimony in sup port of the validity of the will of the late Mary Van Riswick, contested by her daughter, Mrs. Martina Carr, was continued before Judge McCon.as in Circuit Court No. 2 today by counsel for Mr. Wilton J. Lambert, Mrs. Van Riswick's grandson, who is defending the instrument. Before roceeding with the trial today, Judge Mc-Comas called the attention of respective counsel to the fact that visiting militia will be quartered in the city hall the 3d and

4th of next month, and he suggested that as this is but the seventeenth day of the trial, the court should sit hereafter on Fridays. Counsel for Mr. Lambert stated that previous engagements would prevent their attendance next Friday, but Judge Mc-Comas said that thereafter the court would

When The Star's report of the case closed yesterday, Mrs. Katle Joyce, a friend of the Van Riswick family, was on the stand. She testified that Mrs. Van Riswick informed her in October, 1894, that she had disposed of her estate, giving Van View to Wilton, a house to each of her two grand-daughters, house 1413 K street to Mrs. Carr for life, and the income from the residue of the estate equally between Mrs. T. A. Lambert and Mrs. Carr. Mrs. Van Riswick also told her that she had given her relatives nothing, because she found she did not have enough to go all around. She also stated that Mr. and Mrs. Van Riswick always spoke of Wilton as their principal male heir, not wishing the estate to leave the family.

Mrs. Borden Called.

The first witness called today was Mrs. Eugenia R. Borden, a cousin of Mr. Tallmadge A. Lambert. She said she was well acquainted with the Van Riswick family, and said that Mr. Van Riswick and his wife highly esteemed Mr. T. A. Lambert. and had great confidence in him, the for-ner once remarking that he would give half he had to possess Mr. Lambert's mind. During the last year or two of Mrs. Van Riswick's life the witness noticed no falltre of her memory or any great change in her health, she appearing well and rational. Mrs. Lambert since her marriage has been in poor health. Mrs. Van Riswick, she said, was a weman of strong will and fixed purpose. Mrs. Van Riswick once remarked that Wilton should have Van View as she purpose. Mrs. Van Riswick once remarked that Wilton should have Van View, as she regarded him as her rightful heir.

Business Capabilities.

Julius I. Atchison, a local plumber, said he had known Mrs. Van Riswick for about five years, and did much work for her, doirg the last work for her, repairs at Van Vlew, in July, 1833. She always appeared to know just what she wanted and ow it should be done. Mr. Wilton Lambert had nothing to do with the work in any way.
Plumber John Mitchell gave similar testin ony, remarking that in his opinion she was always well capable of transacting business matters.

Alexander Brown, one of Mrs. Van Ris-wick's tenants, testified that from 1891 to June or July, 1893, he paid the rent to her, and subsequently, at her request, to Wilton Lambert. The witness said Mrs. Van Riswick once told him that she did not wish to tax her mind with repairs; that she was getting old, and that she desired to have her property as it was. In his opin-ion Mrs. Van Riswick was a woman not easily moved.

Nellie Quinlan, the next witness, stated that she lived at Mrs. T. A. Lambert's as a chambermaid and waitress from March, 1894, to last October. Mrs. Lambert was in ill health and had great difficulty in ascending the stairs. The relations between Mrs. Van Riswick and Mrs. Lambert and her son were very devoted and bert and her son were very devoted and affectionate. Mrs. Lambert would always ask her mother to drive with her. This was particularly true while they were at Oakland, Md. Mrs. Van Riswick was al-ways very solicitous respecting Mrs. Lam-bert's health and comfort, a feeling fully bert talking with his grandmother, but never heard them talking about business relating jokes. The witness said to Mr. Perry that she had often seen Mrs. Van Riswick write.

"On what?" inquired Mr. Perry.

"On paper, sure," replied the witness.

James Jarboe, a colored bricklayer, said hat he did the work on Mrs. Van Riswick's Missouri avenue house, occupied by Brown, but said that Brown paid him, and that Wilton Lambert had nothing to do Policeman James B. Cochran stated that before going on the force he was a painter, and in the spring of 1805 dld work for Mrs Van Riswick: that she superintended it, and that she was a woman apparently not easily influenced. In payment for the work he received the check of Wilton J. Lambert, having been referred by Mrs. Van Riswick to him.

The meeting of the Music Club the past week was with Mr. and Mrs. Burch. FOURTH OF MARCH VAN RISWICK CASE JUSTICES OF THE PEACE

More Testimony Introduced in the Will They Are Competent to Hold Jury Trials.

Important Decision Rendered by the

An opinion of great importance and inerest both to the public and to the legal of Appeals, the court deciding that a jury trial before a justice of the peace is a common law trial by jury, such as is guaranteed by the Constitution; that justices of the peace have the right to instruct a jury as to the law and evidence, and may set aside the verdict, and that from the judgment of a justice of the peace in a jury trial there is no appeal.

The cases in which the decision were endered were those of the Brightwood Railway Company, appellant, against Justice of the Peace Lewis I. O'Neal, and the of the Peace Lewis I. O'Neal, and Charles Hof, appellant, against the Capital Traction Company. The cases were argued and submitted in the Court of Appeals early last November, and the court's decision has been awaited with great interest. Mr. Chief Justice Alvey dissented from the majority of the court, Mr. Justices Morris and Shepard, the former writing the majority opinion. It is understood that the matter will at once be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

the matter will at once be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

The cases involved the question of the extent of the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in the District, and of the right of arpeal from their judgments. In both cases it was claimed that there is no such thing as a common law jury trial before justices of the peace here, and the District Supreme Court was asked to have the cases tried before the circuit branch of that tribunal, where such a jury trial is permitted, and where the presiding justice is permitted to instruct the jury as to the law and eviinstruct the jury as to the law and evi-dence, and where the verdict can be set aside.

In the Brightwood railway case the lower court held that there is no appeal from the judgment of a justice of the peace rendered in a jury trial. In the Hof case the claim was made in the lower court that a jury trial before a justice of the peace is not such a jury trial as is guaranteed by the Constitution, and that contention the lower court sustained. The Court of Appeals, in disposing of the two cases, affirms the judgment of the lower court in the Brightwood railway case, and reverses the Brightwood railway case, and reverses the lower court in the Hof case.

The majority opinion of the court is one of the longest ever filed in the court, and reviews at great length the laws applying. It is pointed out that Congress is not prohibited by the Constitution from providing a common law jury before justices of the peace in cases where the amount in controversy so warrants, and it is held that troversy so warrants, and it is held that such has been the law here for nearly seventy years. It is also pointed out that seventy years. It is also pointed out that at common law there is no absolute right of appeal. So the court holds "the so-called right of appeal is not an absolute or inalienable right of parties, but that it may be given, regulated or taken away by act of Congress without violation of any inherent right." To hold otherwise, says the court, would not only affect the title to numerous lots of ground here, which have been transferred upon writs of execution, but would likewise paralyze the adminisbut would likewise paralyze the adminis-tration of justice here in all cases involv-ing more than $20 and not more than $100, for then there would be no tribunal here competent by law to take cognizance of such causes.

In conclusion, the court says that if the continued exercise of the practice which has prevailed here for seventy years has become a source of hardship by reason of become a source of hardship by reason of the enlarged jurisdiction of justices of the peace, and inexpedient for them to deal with causes committed to them without the appellate supervision of the courts of common law, it is for Congress, and not for the courts, to apply the remedy. "But." further says the court, "the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia may greatly mitigate the evil, if evil there is, in the practice," by virtue of authority conferred upon said court by the acts of 1867 and 1895.

FARMERS' ALLIANCE

Action Taken by the Supreme Council at Today's Session.

Important Changes in the Constitution Made-Legislative Demands to Be Made.

The Supreme Council of the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union spent this morning in the consideration of the question what to do with the National Alliance aid degree, the insurance branch of the order.

The aid degree has heretofore operated under the charter of the National Alliance, extent. The aid degree has grown to such an extent that there is a demand that it be allowed a charter of its own and do business as a separate organization. The ald degree is now in session at Dallas, Texas, having gone to itself for the first time since it was organized under the al

Plance.

The Supreme Council this morning adopted a resolution leaving to a vote of the aid degree whether it will continue to operate under the charter of the national organizaticn. It is probable that so soon as this action becomes known the aid degree will vote to secure a charter of its own and to work under that charter. It is the order in the west soon carried the head officers of the degree that others besides members of the alliance be allowed to join the degree. By operating under a charter of its own the degree can do this.

Changing the Constitution.

The Supreme Council adopted another important change in the constitution today. It charged the section which prevented the president from serving but one term. The will be re-elected president when the elec-tion of officers is held tonight.

The various committees appointed yes-that there will be no changes in the "demands" of the order. These demands, as is well known, have for their chief aim the free coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1. President Page said today that the order has other demands as to legislation, but it would be well satisfied to secure this one. He asserts that "the scarcity of money is crushing the life out of the farmers of the country." President Page says that the member-ship of the order has suffered in states where the order itself has entered into pelitical fights.
